WIFE QUIZZED IN SHOOTING

Screen Writer Found Slain In Desert Resort Home

PALM SPRINGS (UP)—A real-life killing as mysterious as any that he wrote for motion pictures today claimed the life of Humphrey W. Pearson, 43, movie writer and scenarist, in his fashionable desert home at Palm Springs.

Pearson's widow was under observation in the Riverside County hospital, where she was removed last night after police found her weeping hysterically beside the body of her dead husband.

Although Chief of Police Lloyd Bolter said that theories of murder and suicide both were being checked, he intimated the discovery of a .38 caliber revolver in another room of the house would have to be explained by Mrs. Pearson as soon as she was able to be questioned.

Bullets that killed Pearson assertedly came from the same gun, police declared.

The former New York and Ohio advertising man was shot twice in the chest and had been dead about an hour before his negro butler heard Mrs. Pearson crying and trying to telephone police.

The Pearsons were members of a fashionable Hollywood set that spent week-ends and vacations in the desert oasis east of Riverside. They moved here about seven years ago when Pearson first became identified with the film industry as a free-lance writer and adapter of films.

STRIKE CRISIS OVER NATION IS REPORTED EASED

DETROIT (UP)—Richard T. Frankenstein, organizational director of the United Automobile Workers, announced today that Chrysler officials had formally agreed to meet with union representatives next Wednesday to discuss demands for nationwide collective bargaining.

By UNITED PRESS

Labor strife in industry lessened perceptibly today.

Several hundred sit-down strikers were in possession of the Douglas Aircraft Corporation plant at Santa Monica. The plant was closed; 5,600 workers had been laid off. The management refused to negotiate so long as the strikers remained in the plant. The strikers refused to evacuate.

Five hundred sit-down strikers held the plant of the Timken Detroit Axle Company at Detroit. The plant, which manufactures axles for Chrysler, General Motors, and Ford, was closed.

One hundred sit-down strikers continued their occupation of the Fansteel Metallurgical Company plant at Waukegan, Illinois. The protracted dispute seemed deadlocked.

Attorney J. D. Elliot is home from a visit to San Francisco.

SUIT DROPPED—Peggy Garcia, blonde hat check girl, sued David Rubinoff, noted violinist, for $500,000 heartbalm, but her attorney dropped the matter at the suggestion of the judge who interrupted the hearing to state to the attorneys that he was ready to entertain a motion for dismissal.

PARADE OF SPORTS

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Writer)

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UP)—Patty Berg lifted a gentle pitch shot to the fourth green.

"Just like I hit a baseball when Hubbell's pitching," remarked Leo Ernest Durocher as the golf ball arched high and plopped on the carpet. Leo Ernest, shortstop and captain of the St. Louis Cardinals, was following the play in the girls tournament at Ormond Beach. He was followed by this observer, who wanted to talk baseball, and by three tailors, who wanted to study (for stealing purposes) the cut of Mr. Durocher's new doeskin ensemble. Mister Durocher is always being followed by tailors, because he is the nearest thing to page 49 in Esquire known to sport, he loves his clothes almost as much as he does his base hits, and it is rumored he even gets his baseball suits from Saville Row.

Speaking of Durocher's clothes reminds me of that afternoon in the St. Louis dressing room following the first game of the world series with Detroit a few years ago.

Durocher came in from the field to find that Dizzy Dean, in an expansive moment, had autographed the tips of his (Durocher's) new hand-made, $40, white buckskin shoes. The fact that Dizzy had used bright green ink did not ease Durocher's apoplexy.

It was not until today, as we walked the fairways, that I had an opportunity to ask Leo Ernest what special type of revenge he had used on Dizzy.

"Let's see," he mused. "Oh, yes, I remember. I waited until he bought a new suit and then, when opportunity knocked, I took a pair of scissors and, by the simple means of cutting off the trousers at the knees, reduced them to a stunning pair of knickers. I don't remember, but I believe Diz wore the pants three days before he noticed the difference."

Speaking of the Dizzy one, (Ed Note: Mr. Printer, please use capitals in setting "DIZZY ONEZZ as I understand Dean now ranks himself with the deity) Durocher is strictly on the side of Manager Frankie Frisch.

"I see where Dizzy is popping off about our manager and managers in general," Durocher said. "Well, Frankie will do for me. He knows as much about the game as any man living, and what is more he plays it right down to the last card. I know, because I play out there beside him. When the clutch comes you don't have to wonder what Frisch'll do. You can always bet he will 'barrel' it. Something must be wrong when one manager is enough for all of us, but Dizzy needs 15 or 20."

Durocher admitted, though, that the Dean creature was a hell of a pitcher.

"I batted against him when I was with the Reds," he said. "And baby, he can throw it. When he makes up his mind you aren't gonna hit him, you just don't hit him. If the Lord had given Diz Carl Hubbell's temperament how many games wouldn't he win?"

"Thirty-five or forty," I suggested. "In a breeze, in a breeze. A common canter. How could he miss? Got everything any pitcher ever had, and strong as a country mule. Pitch every other day and never work up an appetite."

Durocheriana; he never minded being called the "Al American Out" because he knew it was good publicity, and because he knew it wasn't true. "Look up my record and you'll see I knocked in more runs than a lot of those high 300 hitters". . . .

Thinks the Cards got all the better of it in the trade with Chicago, because "Warneke is as good as he ever was, and Rip Collins isn't likely to hit much in the Cubs park". . . .

Record proves left-handed hitters can't be consistently good in Cubs park because of peculiar background. Thinks Joe Medwick, Cards' outfielder, is best player in the league. . . .

"What else could you think of a gent who plays 154 ball games a year for you, sets records in doubles, leads league in runs batted in, gets more than his share of triples and home runs, and is a hell of a fielder to boot."

1937 SOIL PROGRAM SIMILAR TO THAT CARRIED OUT IN '36

Crop classifications under the 1937 agricultural conservation program—soil-depleting and soil-conserving—are similar to those provided in the 1936 program, points out George H. Volz, chairman of the county agricultural conservation committee.

"Soil-depleting crops are those which take plant food out of the soil or leave the land exposed to severe erosion. Soil-conserving crops do not necessarily add fertility to the land, but hold the soil in place and help to maintain the plant food therein."

In carrying out the 1937 agricultural conservation program in California, following are the crop classifications which have been established:

SOIL-DEPLETING CROPS: Corn (field, sweet and popcorn); potatoes; sweet potatoes and yams; sugar beets for sugar or seed; cultivated sunflowers; annual truck, canning, and vegetable crops, and their seeds; melons; sorghums, including sudan grass, milo maize, Egyptian corn, broom corn, and other grain and sweet-sorghums, for seed, grain, hay, or pasture; small grains including flax for grain or hay, or pasture, except when classified as a nurse crop for pasture or clipped green; millets; soybeans, field beans; cowpeas, field peas, and seed peas, for grain, hay, pasture or canning purposes, except when classified as nurse crop, pastured or clipped green; root crops for feed or seed; cotton; rice; fiber plants including hemp; commercial mustard; tobacco; annual cut flowers and their seeds; peanuts; volunteer grains when cut for hay or grain.

SOIL-CONSERVING CROPS: Legumes: Alfalfa, sweet, red, alsike, white, strawberry, ladino, Mammoth, crimson, bur, and sour clovers; lespedeza; vetches; Austrian winter peas; and mixtures thereof; without nurse crop, or with nurse crop if such nurse crop is not harvested for grain or hay.

Grasses: Bluegrass, orchard, rye grasses, wheat grasses, timothy, red-top, bent grasses, fescues, tall oat grass, Reed's canary grass, velvet, Dallis, Harding, Rhodes, brome, buffalo, and grama grasses, and mixtures thereof; without nurse crop, or with nurse crop if such nurse crop is not harvested for grain or hay.

Cover and Green Manure Crops: Annual, biennial and perennial legumes; rye, barley, oats, and grain mixtures; mustards—white, black, Trieste; white malva; and such other crops as may be approved; when turned under in 1937, after attaining at least two months' growth.

Forest Trees: When planted on crop land since January 1, 1934.

Crop land adapted to the production of rice for which water is readily available and on which no soil-depleting crop is grown for harvest in 1937.

Volunteer grain and legume mixtures used for pasture in 1937.

NEUTRAL USES: Land devoted to the following uses shall be regarded as neutral: Orchards, vineyards, tree fruits, nut trees, bush, and small fruits, including strawberries, regardless of use of land between the rows; perennial vegetables including asparagus, artichokes, horse-radish, and rhubarb; nursery stocks including perennial ornamentals and perennial cut flowers, and their seeds; guayule; bulbs; idle crop land including idle fallow unless otherwise classified; cultivated summer fallow unless otherwise classified; crop land planted to forest trees between January 1, 1930, and January 1, 1934; hops.

U. S. May Reopen Navy Armor Plant

WASHINGTON (UP)—Administration officials were disclosed today to have reversed their policies on the possibility of the government producing its own armor plate if the navy steel shortage continues.

High sources staid reopening of the war-time armor plate plant at South Charleston, W. Va., was being considered as a result of the failure of steel manufacturers to bid on navy contracts. The steel shortage threatens to delay U. S. naval construction.

CONSERVATION AWARD GIVEN TO ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK (UP)—The first award of the New York Gun and Rod Editors' Association went to President Roosevelt "for the most outstanding contribution to the protection and development of outdoor resources."

The award was a model of the Hudson River Packet, experiment, which engaged in Far East trading late in the 18th century.

A message from the President officially thanking the association for its initial award said:

"Long ago I pledged myself to a policy of conservation which would guard against the ravaging of our forests, wasting of our good earth and water supplies and the squandering of irreplaceable oil and mineral deposits. For our own self protection we must all dedicate ourselves to the cause of true conservation."

Missouri Flat Farm Center meets on Monday, March 8, and State Forest Ranger Willard Austin will speak on "Conservation."

Cary Grant says:
"a light smoke rates aces high with my throat"

"Luckies have been my cigarette for five years now. I rate them a 4 star cigarette. They're always good to the throat, and taste so much better than other cigarettes that it seems to me this 'Toasting' process is a swell idea. Yes, a light smoke like Luckies rates aces high with both my throat and taste."

Cary Grant

APPEARING IN THE NEW
COLUMBIA PICTURE, "WHEN YOU'RE IN LOVE"

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Mr. Grant verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.

As the guests gathered at the table, Mr. Johnson made a short address, offering a blessing and the Lord's prayer. Mrs. Johnson said a few words of appreciation to the friends and relatives who were helping to make the day a perfect one.
